QUIPS AND CRANKS

1917

Dedication to
George E. Wilson, Sr.

In sincere appreciation of the deep affection for his Alma Mater, and the loyal devotion to her best interests which he has so clearly manifested, this volume of
“Quips and Cranks”
is affectionately dedicated

FRANCIS HAYNE BAKER
Savannah, Ga.

E.U.; BACHELOR

"Music hath charms to soothe the Savage breast."

From the instant in his Fresh year when he began to assist the chapel piano with his violin, Kubelik has been a recognized leader in Davidson's musical circles. "Making a violin talk" is play to him and John Philip Sousa himself has nothing on "Bacchus" as a director. But don't think for a moment that this Georgia Cracker confines himself to music alone. For his work in the Eu. Society he was rewarded by a little pink regalia in which to display his manly form speakings and commencement; and among the odoriferous fumes of the Chemistry lab. he is perfectly at home. Moreover, "Bacchus" is a thoroughly good fellow and his departure during the year was a distinct loss to the class.

Orchestra and Glee Club (4); Leader Orchestra (2); Commencement Marshal; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Secretary Y. M. C. A.; Treasurer Eu. Society.

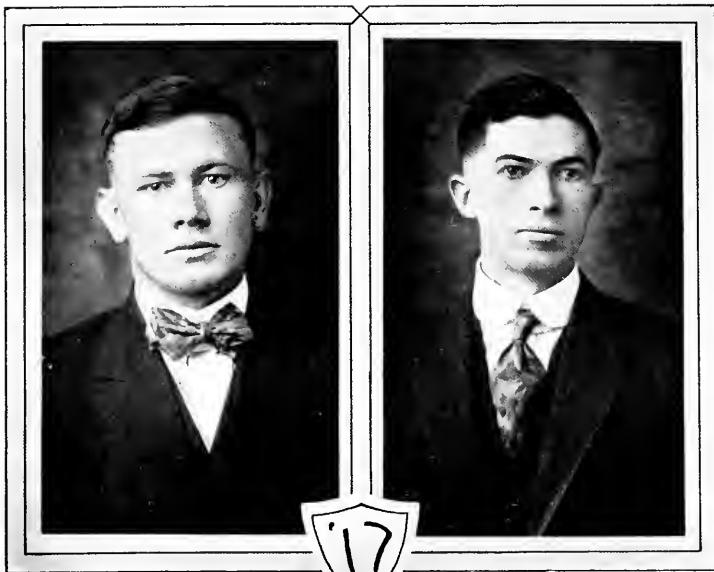

ANDREW BROWN

A. B.; Eu.; Σ T; GRYPHON

"Few things are impossible to diligence and skill."

When Andrew makes up his mind to do a thing, he generally does it, and does it well. A good student, an excellent writer, a faithful worker, a man of ability and an original one—all this is combined in our capable Editor-in-Chief of this volume of "Quips and Cranks." Not only in this but in the various college activities his tireless efforts have brought him success. Several times he has crossed swords with the reviewer in the Eu. Society, and this year he was an important cog in the Senior football team. And as a ladies' man, our friend from Mississippi is in Class A No. 1; he can certainly hold his own with the fair sex. There is no doubt that Andrew is a man of ability, and some day we will say with pride that we were classmates of his.

JOHN WATKINS BULLOCK
Bullock, N. C.

A. B.; Phi.

"We have no time to sport away the hours,
All must be earnest in a world like ours."

When in his Soph year "Dickie" plowed with such vigor through the football line, the coaches began to prophesy a great future for him in the game. But he stopped, put all his energy into his studies, and the result you see today. He is one of the most conscientiously hardworking fellows in college, and to see "Dickie" concentrate is an education in itself. But in this he has wronged many of his fellow-students, since he has deprived them of the privilege of knowing him intimately. But those who do know him know a gentleman, a good-hearted, absent-minded, lovable fellow, who will some day make his mark in the world.

Secretary and Second Supervisor Phi. Society; Punctuality Roll; Scrub Football; Class Baseball.

HERMAN ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL
Aberdeen, N. C.

A. B.; Phi.

"Where the stream runneth smoothest, the water is deepest."

Making the Honor Roll has become a matter of habit with Herman, and he seems to treat the affair as a pastime while the rest of us are losing sleep on account of nightmares connected with our "dips." His classmates early recognized his ability when they elected him to represent them on the Student Council in their first year. And to see Herman clog-dance is a treat. In this elongated specimen you will find a quiet, unassuming, good-hearted fellow, one who can be depended upon, and one that will repay your acquaintance. When he gets his Ph.D., we expect great things from Herman as a college professor.

Honor Roll (4); Punctuality Roll; Class Baseball; Second Critic Phi. Society; Student Council; Mimir Society; Assistant in Latin.

RAYMOND TRICE CARROLL
Jackson, Tenn.

A. B.; Σ A E

"It takes more than a fool to hold his tongue."

A man of fair countenance, excellent intellect, and dogged determination is "Gangley." This son of Tennessee is not afraid of hard work, nor does he ride all the cripes he can find; still, when he got to the point where he was taking only six tickets, his loathing was shocking. Entering College with the Class of Eighteen, he soon decided to drop a year, and by two years' hard work has been classed as a Senior, and graduates a true and loyal Seventeen. He takes special delight in astronomical problems, and if you are concerned over the oscillations of the epicyclic asteroids in their elliptical perturbations, go to Carroll about it and he will enlighten you to your heart's content. Good luck to you, big boy!

Pan-Hellenic Council.

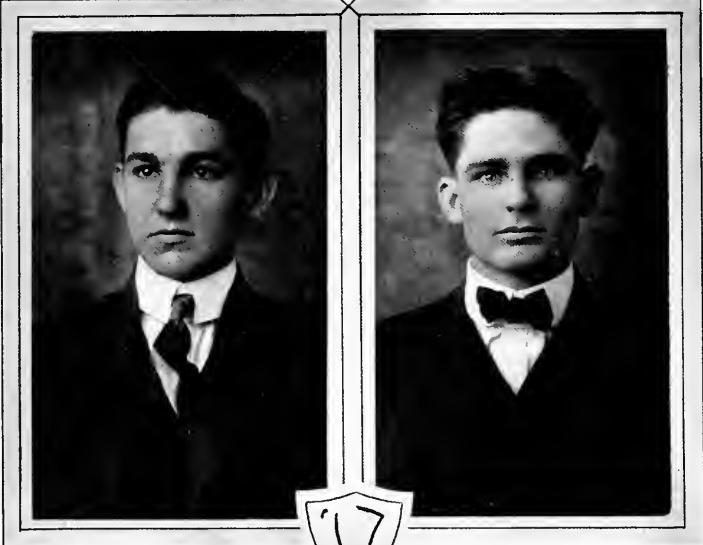

AVERY TED CASHION
Davidson, N. C.

B. S.; BACHELORS' CLUB; ST. CECILIA
"The mildest manners with the bravest mind."

After every Glee Club concert all the girls want to know who the man was that stood on the end of the row and sang bass. Of course we all know that it was Ted, for he has held this place in every concert, and judging from the "hits" he has made he holds it well. But that is by no means all that is to be said about him, for he is one who is interested in every other phase of college life, and though he has been a member of our class only three years, yet he has won his way into our esteem and our best wishes go with him in whatever he may do after we are separated.

Orchestra and Glee Club (2); Manager Orchestra and Glee Club; Class Baseball (4).

AUGUSTUS ROCHESTER CRAIG
Pendleton, S. C.

A. B.; Eu.

"In thy face I see the map of honor, truth, and loyalty."

Craig came to Davidson one of the youngest boys in our class, a stripling in knee trousers, with a bunch of prep-work to cover. In these four years, he has not only made his degree, but has colored it with the Honor Roll. And he didn't cash in on his health to do it either. He is now a well developed man—physically, as his work on the class football and basketball teams demonstrate; intellectually, as attested by the Honor Roll; and morally, as his upright life on the campus has shown. His earnest and conscientious labor will tell in his life-work, the ministry.

Junior-Senior Debater's "Rep."; Secretary-Treasurer Christian Endeavor; Treasurer Eu. Society; Class Football; Class Basketball; International Polity Club.

LEONARD HUGH EIKEL
Fort White, Fla.

A. B.; Eu.

*"We must find our duties in what comes to us,
Not in what we imagine might have been."*

Sunny Florida lays claim to this member of our class, and well may she be proud of her claim. "Ikey" is no seeker of the spot-light, but nevertheless he has made his mark among us by his constant application to duty, by his steady dependability, and his ability to think a thing out before starting to talk about it. In the class room, in the literary society, and in other activities he has shown those qualities which have revealed him as a good friend, and painstaking worker, having the best interests of the student body and the student activities at heart.

Junior Commencement Orator; President and Reviewer Eu. Society; Senior Commencement Orator; Alternate Debating Team.

THOMAS AUGUSTUS FINLEY
North Wilkesboro, N. C.

B. S.; Phi.; KΣ; St. Cecilia
"A wise man will make more opportunities than he finds."

Here is a fellow that is looked up to by us all, for Tom is in a class by himself when it comes to height. Big of stature, his heart and intellect are in proportion. When he crams a cigar back in one corner of his mouth, and begins talking out of the other corner, you may be assured that what he says is going to be to the point. Tom seems bound to succeed in everything he enters, whether it be in his student or in his business activities, where he is especially prominent. Judging from his success here, we will say that he will some day be a business man of whom we will be proud.

Punctuality Roll; Class Basketball; Class Baseball; Class Football; Scrub Football; Manager Tennis Team; Executive Committee Athletic Association; Pan-Hellenic Council.

EVELYN HARRISON HAMILTON
Atlanta, Ga.

A. B.; Eu.; ΣΤ
"There's nothing ill can dwell in such a temple."

This light-haired son of Atlanta returned to the fold this year, after being absent from us during the time that we were struggling through our Junior year. But he is going to show us how to graduate in three years, for he says it would never do to not finish with old '17. "Ham" makes the Honor Roll about as easy as the most of us make that coveted 70. What's more, he has made good in everything that he has undertaken—and he is no one-sided man. A man of high moral ideals, excellent intellectual ability, and a genuine good fellow, we expect great things from "Ham" as he goes out to Africa as a missionary.

President and Valedictorian Eu. Society; President Ministerial Band; Vice-President Volunteer Band; Honor Roll; Senior Commencement Orator.

SAMUEL CALDWELL HARRIS
Albemarle, N. C.

B. S.; KΣ

"Thy wit is as quick as the greyhound's mouth."

"Rachael" is a quiet and unassuming fellow, but one that possesses the power to make you laugh—and the world loves the man who can make her laugh. There is no one who appreciates a good joke more than he or who can tell one any better. Although he doesn't shine as an athlete himself, there is not a man in college who takes more interest in the teams, or backs them more than "Rachael." If you want to hear real scientific rooting, just go to a football game with him; he is in a class by himself. And when it comes to taking in tickets and the "kale" at the games he is surpassed by none. He has a good business head and sound judgment in financial matters, and when he gets out in the business world we predict much success for Manager Harris.

Executive Committee of Athletic Association; Assistant Manager and Manager Baseball; Quips and Cranks Staff.

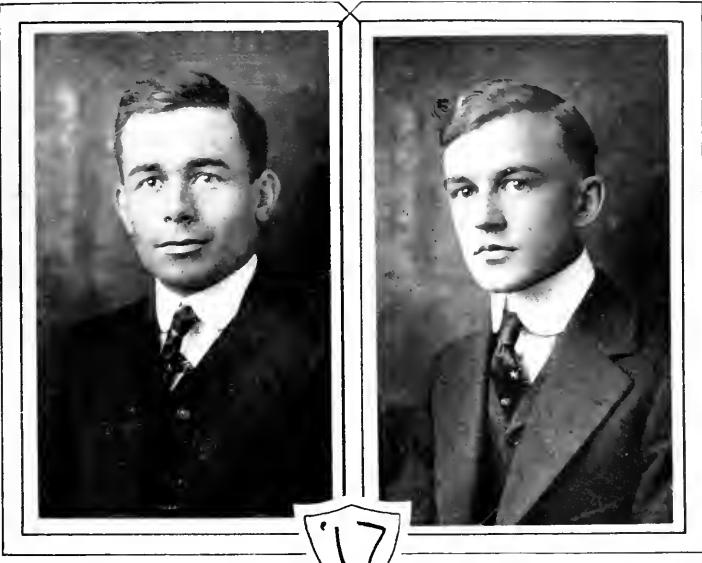

STEPHEN THOMAS HENDERSON
Charlotte, N. C.

B. S.; Phi; II KPhi; ΣΤ; St. Cecilia
"To myself alone do I owe my fame."

Of the several leaders in college life and activity that '17 has produced, Tom is one of the most prominent. A ready smile, an attractive personality, and an ability for leadership both in the class room and on the campus, are factors that unite to make him a man of true worth and merit, and an honor to the class of which he is a member.

Honor Roll (2); Student Council (2); President Class, 1915-16; President, Vice-President, Second Critic, and Respondent Phi. Society; Assistant Manager Magazine; Assistant Manager and Manager Quips and Cranks; Magazine Staff; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Commencement Marshall; Junior Commencement Orator; Minir Society; Class Basketball (2); Class Baseball; Chairman Pan-Hellenic Council; President Wilson-Bickett Club; Assistant in Physics; Assistant in History (2); International Polity Club; Treasurer Golf Club.

JOHN KEMP HOBSON
Waterford, Va.

A. B.; Eu.

"The life but speaks the true heart within."

Hobson will never be satisfied until he attains his ambition—to see his name written Rev. J. K. Hobson, D.D., and certainly he will not be disappointed, judging from his record here as an efficient Y. M. C. A. worker and an enthusiastic member of the Ministerial Band. He is a sincere and persistent worker. Men of his type make no brilliant marks, ride no skyrockets to glory, toot no horns of self-praise, yet after all win in life's battle. If in future years we turn to the pages in life's success-book reserved for '17, we will be sure to find written large the name of J. K. Hobson.

Junior Commencement Orator.

RAWLS HOWARD
Tarboro, N. C.

B. S.; II KΦ

"War, he sang, is toil and trouble; Honor but an empty bubble."

The Goddess of Fortune certainly must have smiled on Rawls' birth, for seldom has anyone gone through college with as little trouble as he. While the rest of us are knee-deep in study, Kawls will likely be found drop-kicking, playing golf, or sleeping; yet, getting shot is an experience almost foreign to him, and when reports come out the grades of this loyal son of Tarboro arouse the envy of students far more laborious than he. In addition, his persuasive ability is something uncanny. Altogether, Rawls is a thoroughly likeable fellow, and we expect great things of him after he leaves us for real life.

DAVID VENABLE HUDSON
Kashin, China

B. S.; Eu.

"Care will kill a cat"—and so will Dave Hudson, if one gets in his way.

Put one such felis domesticus on an operating table with a set of dissecting instruments; on another table put an odorous concoction—with a test tube. Now put Dave on a stool between these two, and he'll be as near Heaven as he ever will be on earth. Though solemn and serious, Dave has as large a bump of humor as any other man at Davidson. As founder of the M. T. C. (Midnight Transfer Club) his influence has been felt by many men on the campus. He has the quiet stick-to-itiveness that will win, and he will be a medical missionary of the first magnitude. Dr. Kelly had better look out for his laurels when Dr. Hudson becomes a full-fledged M. D.

ROBERT EARL HUGHES
Cedar Grove, N. C.

A. B.

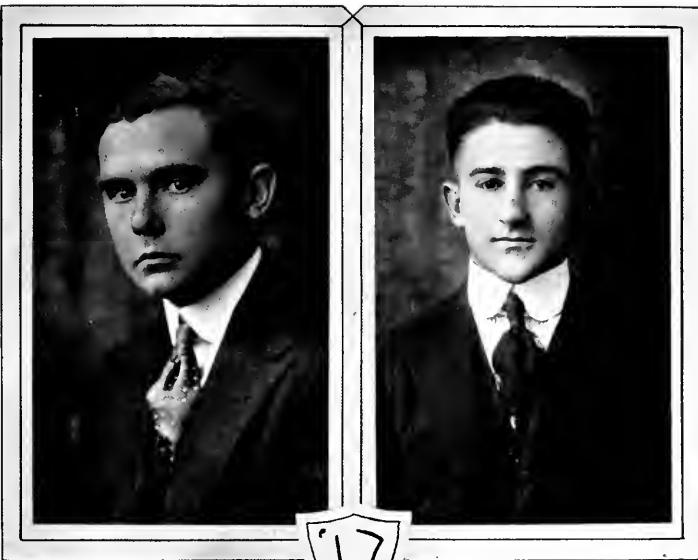

"In every gesture dignity."

We are glad indeed that this son of dignity and brevity has chosen to graduate with '17 instead of casting his fate with his original class of 1916. He was never known to say much and what he does say is almost in a confidential whisper. No one here has ever heard him say twenty successive words, but we are convinced that many a lady within a radius of twenty-five miles could give a glowing account of his ability to "speak as never man spake"—to her. But when you want a man who will take a hard job and stick to it whether it be passing hard tickets or upholding the honor of the class on the gridiron, he's your man.

CHARLES REES JENKINS
Charleston, S. C.

B. S.; Eu.; K.A.

"The last pleasure in life is the sense of discharging one's duty."

Rees is going to be a famous M. D. some day, for if working will get a man anywhere, this fellow will certainly succeed. A diligent and thorough student, he is never seen idling away his time. He believes in turning his golden opportunities into account for the future. To hear him talk is to know his nativity, for he possesses that twang characteristic of all pure Charlestonians. Good-natured, kind, thoughtful, studious, a great stickler for duty, and then some—all this is Rees—a real man. The world is needing such as he, and is bound to be benefited by him.

Secretary-Treasurer Class, 1916-17; Commencement Marshall; Class Basketball.

SAMUEL REEVES KEESLER, JR.
Greenwood, Miss.

A. B.; Eu.; BO II; ΣΤ; St. Cecilia
Gryphon

"I heart to resolve, a head to contrive, a hand to execute."

The Fates were kind when they sent to our class one of Sam's calibre, for there are few like him. Despite his light weight and diminutive stature, his prowess on the football field will be long remembered. His easy, courteous manner marks him a gentleman of the true old Southern type, while his popularity and the confidence placed in his ability is shown by his position as President of the Student Body.

President Student Body; Vice-President Athletic Association; Secretary-Treasurer Student Body; Vice-President Class, 1914-15; Student Council (2); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Vice-President Eu. "Do not let the burdens of tomorrow break the back of today."

When you are looking for the man that will attempt the thing that can't be done, choose Bill, and he'll do it. Here is a fellow who has been a great factor in making '17's enviable athletic record what it is. For four years he has been a mainstay on the class football, baseball, and basketball teams. And Bill is a star in other fields too. If there's anybody who knows any more about Chemistry than Bill, we are "from Missouri." Here is where his heart lies, and if he goes at everything like he does Chemistry, he will be heard from some of these days.

Class Football (4); Class Baseball (4); Class Basketball (3); Captain Class Football; Manager Class Basketball; Assistant in Chemistry.

JOHN PARRY LAIRD, JR.
Decatur, Ga.

B. S.; KΣ; Sr. CECILIA

"It is a friendly heart that hath plenty of friends."

Which of his two well-known characteristics did "Johnny" evince first—his genious-like accuracy in sciences or his unerring precision in carrying the "pig-skin"?" So early in his career at Davidson did he reveal both these traits that even the members of his own class do not know which has precedence. For while he was hitting the line like a battering-ram for consistent gains, the Prof. was marking a grade of 100 on his Math. paper. With his graduation, Davidson loses a good student and a splendid athlete, and the students as true a comrade and friend as they ever possessed. Of such men '17 is proud.

Varsity Football (4); Manager Class Football (2); Wearer of the "D"; President Wearers of the "D"; Class Baseball; Class Basketball; Varsity Basketball (2); Assistant in Physics; Manager Varsity Basketball; Assistant in Math.

DAN INGRAM McKEITHEN
Aberdeen, N. C.

A. B.; Phi; Gryphon
"My strength is as the strength of ten Because my heart is pure."

Dan entered the Class of '17 its baby, and leaves it its President, a man from his shoes up, with all the constituents thereof. His easy refined manner and sunny disposition have made him popular with everybody. His four years' membership on the Gym Team shows his physical prowess, while repeated "honorable mentions" testify to his excellent scholarship, the Student Council to his clear judgment, and the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet to his strong Christian life and influence. He is our youngest, but one of our best.

President Class, 1916-17; Secretary-Treasurer Class, 1915-16; Student Council; Quips and Cranks Staff; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Secretary Damage Committee; Punctuality Roll; Vice-President and First Critic Phi. Society; Gym. Team (3); Class Football; Senior Representative at Soph. Banquet; International Polity Club; Assistant in German.

LAUCH DIXON McKINNON
Laurinburg, N. C.

B. S.

*"Far may we search before we find
A heart so manly and so kind."*

In Lauch we find that characteristic so typical of the Scotch: he is a man of deeds rather than words. He is one of those men who make up the real backbone of our class. And nobody loves fun any better than he does. If you have ever committed any slightly unconventional act and knowledge of the same has come to his ear, you are a jibed man and will never hear the last of it from him. Lauch has for the past two years been one of the real stars of the class football series and to him is due good measure of credit for the good showing of our team. A good student, a good athlete, and a good friend, we consider Lauch one of '17's representative men.

Student Council; Class Baseball; Class Football (2); Scrub Baseball (3).

MURDOCK MCKINNON
Laurinburg, N. C.

B. S.

"His wee chubby face, an' his tousy curly paw."

A sound from the room beneath you suddenly bursts upon your ears, and makes your windows rattle. Oh no, it's nothing serious, it's just "Reverend" laughing, a jolly, contagious laugh that is a sure cure for the blues. And "Reverend" does other things as well as he laughs. Everybody knows that when he loosens up his collar, cocks his feet on the table, and pushes his hat to one side of his head, he means business and a 98 is sewed up. On the football field few plays succeed around his end, and on the cinder path he is a luminary. Instead of living up to his name, "Rev." expects to become an M. D., and we prophecy a worthy addition to the profession.

JAMES PURDIE McNEILL
Florence, S. C.

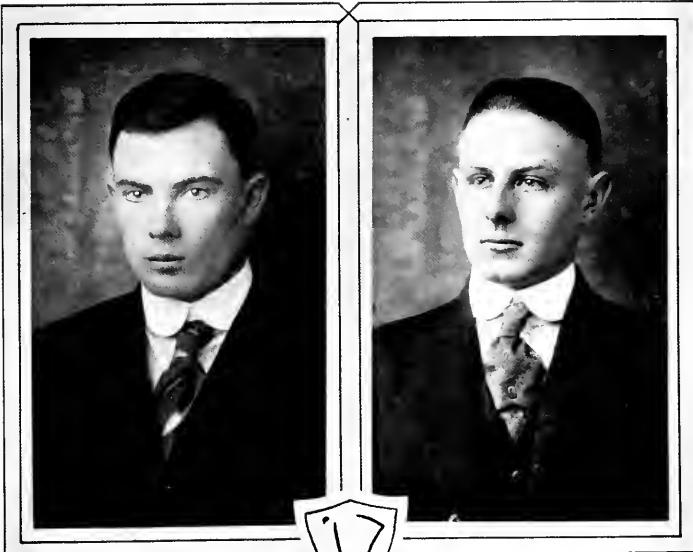

B. S.; H. K. A.; Sr. CECILIA

"Men of humor are always in some degree men of power."

Whether in the class room, playing the French horn in the Orchestra, or dealing out admissions to a football game, Jim is always the same good-natured, likeable, and all-round good fellow. He formerly belonged to the Class of '16, but showed his wisdom by waiting a year and becoming a member of old '17, and thus both he and we have been benefited. Everybody who knows Jimmy, knows a cracking good fellow and those who don't know him have missed a whole lot, for you have got to know him before you can appreciate him.

Honor Roll; Audit Board of Student Activities; Orchestra and Glee Club; Secretary-Treasurer Athletic Association; Pan-Hellenic Council; Assistant in Economics.

JOHN WALTER MANN
Mebane, N. C.

A. B.; Phi.

"That man is great, who rises to the emergencies of the occasion and becomes master of the situation."

Here is a quiet, hard-working fellow, who by devotion to duty and faithfulness to purpose has made good among us. "Jocko" takes college seriously, and puts his whole soul into whatever he undertakes. For the past two years he has been our mainstay at guard on the class football team, and during the games his vibrant bass voice has been a terror to his opponents, as well as a horror to his Freshman servants on the Alley. His sincerity, good nature, and sunny smile have won many friends for him, and he has the best wishes of us all as we part.

Punctuality Roll; Class Baseball; Class Football.

WILBUR ERSKINE MATTISON

B. S.; H. K. A.; St. Cecilia

"A fair exterior is a heralding recommendation."

When Bill enters the hall and walks down the aisle, the ladies look, gasp, and then whisper. Those who are with them say that after that they are quite heartless, for Bill has stolen those precious possessions. But Bill is more than good looks and ladies' hearts; he has one of his own that is big and generous, and that has won for him many a warm friend among his fellow students. He is a good student, a good athlete, and an all-round good fellow, and whatever profession he enters, he is sure to fill the bill.

"And when a lady's in the case,
You know all other things give place."

"Monk" is a man quick to make friends, and is today one of the most universally liked fellows on the campus. It has been said of him that he is the best-natured lazy man on the Hill, and this pretty well expresses our sentiments. But be it understood that "Monk" can get as much life in anything as anyone else, when the occasion demands it. His favorite study is dancing, and he will ride a bucking broncho backward, if need be, to get to a dance he has heard something about, no matter where it may be. Of a friendly nature and winning manners, "Monk" has our best wishes as he goes out from us.

Class Baseball; Class Football.

JAMES WILLIAM MILLER
Sherrill's Ford, N. C.

B. S.

"A good strong character with independence and force."

There is no use looking for Sherrill's Ford, N. C., on the map, for it isn't there now. Its centre and circumference, the air of all its hopes and fears, the pride of the local Farmers' Union, in a word its most prominent citizen has for the last four years been wearing his slow and good-natured way through the halls of Davidson. "Jimmy" has been climbing persistently up the ladder that leads to a "Dip" until he can now return to Sherrill's Ford to enchant the natives with his wonderful Latin sheep-skin—which he will never be able to read.

When the time for football comes around, "Jim" shakes off his inertia sufficiently to make "All Class" centre and a "D. C." A solid man, we only wish we had more like him.

"Beholding the bright countenance of Truth in the quiet and still air of delightful studies."

"Peter" can't rid himself of the idea that college was founded for the dissemination of knowledge. Ever since the days of our Freshmanhood he has been upholding the Honor Roll end of our class, with a few assistants. And "Peter" seems to have solved the commonly appreciated difficulty of harmonizing a good time with good marks. In the regular Sunday morning cantatas on the "Alley" he is an essential figure. It hasn't been determined, however, what he sings, except that it lies between a Mayfield tenor and a Hobson bass. Neat as a pin, courteous and dependable, we predict that he will be a matrimonial success and we believe that the lady of his choice will find him a good fellow every day.

"Who seeks success must falter not, nor

The only road that leads to it is work."

"Mitch" goes about everything he undertakes in a business-like way, and does it with all his might. He is a close observer, interested in everything, and can give you information on any subject whatever. He has been a leader in the Literary Society, the publications, and the Y. M. C. A., and has always had the best interests of the college at heart. As he goes out into his chosen field, municipal research, we are confident that his business ability, perseverance, and devotion to duty will bring him success.

HERBERT SETH MORGAN
Atlanta, Ga.

A. B.

"He that hath knowledge spareth words"

Morgan does well what most people in this world fail to do—he minds his own business, and lets other people mind theirs. Not that he is sullen, rather he is courteous and friendly with all. He takes things seriously, he means business, and he does things well. Often the men who do the big things in this world are those quiet, steady workers like H. S. But we don't believe that he would be such a steady worker and tackle life with such grim determination just for the glory of achievement. No, there's a great impelling motive somewhere. Yes, surely "there's a girl-in-the-heart-of-some-where, with a heart that is all his own." And she, as well as we, will some day look with pride upon this determined man.

If you are looking for a fellow with a winsome smile, a personality that draws you to him, and whose actions are always prompted by sincerity of purpose, then "Mooney" is your man. He entered Davidson in our Soph year, and so quickly entered into the spirit of the class that it seems that he has always been a part of us. Among his best friends he is noted for his jokes (?), but he also shines in the orchestra, with the ladies, and especially on the German and Biology classes. His friendly nature and splendid character have won for him a warm place in the hearts of all of us.

Murray has been a very important cog in Seventeen's football, baseball, and basketball teams, and has been a loyal classmate in every respect. Not content with simply playing class ball, this year he went out for the Varsity basketball team, and represented Davidson ably in several games. In the gym, he shines to the point of defying the very laws of gravitation with his clear lights and dips. He is an all-round good fellow, and his friendly nature have won for him a host of friends. A good consistent student; he says, however, that life is too sweet to be sacrificed for the sake of the Honor Roll.

"Bloody," although a most dignified Senior, still bears this sophomore cognomen of the old regime. Bill goes into everything with an indomitable will and a born talent for doing things. He is a good student, a good orator, a good business man, and a good friend. And how the ladies cheer when Bill takes his seat after a masterpiece of oratory or a solo! A man of ability, splendid character, and refined manner, he is sure to make a high mark in the world.

"Kindness is a language that the deaf can hear and the dumb understand."

"Eb" possesses those qualities that go to make up a generous, good-natured, and popular fellow. He carries that smile around with him wherever he goes, and with it wins the friendship of everybody, and plays havoc with the gentler sex. We believe that there is not a man on the campus who has more friends than he has. During his sojourn here he has held many important positions of trust, and his success is proof of his ability. We count "Eb" as one of our leaders, and expect great things of him in the future as he goes into medicine.

"When duty whispers low, 'thou must.'
The youth replies, 'I can.'"

Life with "Deacon" is a serious thing—at times, almost too serious. Thoughtful of others and tender-hearted (though not chicken-hearted) it is rumored that one day he apologized to the dummy on the football field after a vigorous tackle. Religion with "Deacon" is not like a Sunday suit, but it is a part of himself, directing his everyday affairs as much as his attendance on six Sunday meetings. To him "a man's a man for a' that," and unaffected by flattery or ridicule, he looks upon all men as his brothers. With this altruism and his earnest labor, "Deacon" will serve his fellowmen sincerely in the ministry.

But he is so modest about it that only with difficulty have we discovered that he is the possessor of an essayist's medal, a Junior-Senior debater's medal, and a Varsity debater's medal. In addition, he has done well in other college activities. Whenever he goes into a thing he goes in to win or die game and we believe that this same spirit will go with him and make him a power in the ministry.

A remarkable store of information, a vivid imagination, the embodiment of courtesy, generosity, kindness, and chivalry—a "true Chesterfield," all this is "Dunny." Probably no one in college has read more widely than he. This is his hobby, yet he has been unable to follow it for the last three years on account of weak eyes, and has had to depend on someone to read his lessons to him. He always has a kind word for everybody, and all who have become acquainted with him count him a true friend. It's a safe wager that he has more nicknames and titles than any man on the hill. But that is the spirit with which he has undertaken everything. Look at him, half as broad as he is tall and as thick as he is broad, an all-state football guard; chief marshall, orator, and student councilman—all in one. "The combined qualities of a man and a great athlete."

"Steve" is our greatest athlete. He came here after a year at Clemson, where he distinguished himself both on the diamond and the gridiron. Since he has been here he has done good work on the baseball field, and as a football player he has verily made himself famous and long to be remembered. For four years he made his letter, and led the team as Captain one year. We believe that there has never been a better defensive back at Davidson and few as good as he on the offense. And Cosmo is more than an athlete, for he hits other things just as hard as he does the football line. With the fair sex he is a star. "Steve" is of the kind that stands up for his rights, and we are sure that he will have them as he goes up against the world.

Guy says that talk is useless, burdensome, and tiresome, and was made by the gods only for women, busybodies and Freshmen. He does not go around the campus advertising his wares, but when you look him up and investigate, you will find him all wool and a yard wide. When it comes down to things really worth while, you cannot find a more diligent student on the Hill. He makes his nineties with ease, and when it comes to Senior Speaking we believe that we will not be contradicted when we say that he said the most in the least time of any of us. Some of these days, when he tempers down his social proclivities, the world will look with amazement upon the materialized dreams of this resourceful youth.

In "Big Ben" are conjured up the very quintessence of football prowess and gridiron enthusiasm. In every game for the past three years he has been a star, this year leading the Red and Black as Captain through its most successful season. And the Honor Roll? Well, he has one of his own, and, needless to say he never fails to make it. And life is bound to be a success for him, because he is one who is able to translate his contagious confidence into veritable deeds, a fact amply proven by his superb gridiron work. Add to this a jolly, fun-loving disposition and a democratic friendliness, and you have Ben.

Here we have the Junior member of the firm—White Bros., Football Stars. These two fellows prove conclusively that Georgia can furnish football players of 42 cm. calibre. What "T. Just as we do not think of Tennyson's "The Last Tournament" without the conjoined idea of fair lasses, so we cannot think of the last game of the White's without the presence of the fair ones. Theron is a good hard worker, and has made his mark among us. May Georgia send us many more like him.

QUIPS AND CRANKS

Senior History

ALTHOUGH the continuance of the European war and the possibilities of activity on the part of Uncle Sam's forces still monopolize the front pages of our daily papers, there is still a bit of history which is yet to be chronicled. In 1913 the Class of Nineteen Seventeen entered Davidson College. Full of hope and high ambitions, we came, we saw—but—we GOT licked. A few nights after our arrival some of us were given an opportunity to show our athletic ability by setting a speed limit for the town—considerate members of the Soph Class being the judges. Others of us turned explorers, and sought out the mysterious recesses of strange and wonderful buildings. Since it was the open season for bird hunting, several of us took part in the joys of snipe hunting. Of course it was understood that each hero should keep the spoils for himself and not boast of his catch.

A feature of our class was its cosmopolitanism, such distant sections of country as Greenwood, Miss., Lithonia, Ga., China, and Persia being well represented. Naturally, it was a good class. In spite of the grunts, groans, and other remarks which the censors will not pass, made by the other classes, we walked off with the basketball, football, and baseball championships, and the only reason we did not win the track cup too was that no Seventeen man could be found who would run from anybody. By the time Commencement rolled around, Seventeen was recognized as the best class, athletically, that has been at Davidson for years.

Shortly before the opening of our Soph year, little Willie Hohenzollern started a family row in Europe, and since the aforesaid scrap had knocked the bottom out of the cotton market, we decided to go easy with poor Dad, and hold the Soph Banquet on the Hill instead of in Charlotte. Under the financial direction of Eddie Hampton, and the oratorical leadership of Butch McKay, the occasion was pulled off in great style in the Old Commencement Hall. Among the many features were the speeches of Reese Jenkins, (of Chawleston); the Duke de Ostrelum and his little brother; and the ebony physiognomies of Oskeegum and Maude. The night was passed in much merriment and bull-slinging, in spite of the interruptions of certain Freshmen under the lead of Preacher Morrison, who cut off the luminous juice. We should worry. Dave Hudson had some candles in his pocket.

As has already been said, the long suit of our class was athletics, but when Junior Speaking came around, we didn't let a little thing like that balk us. We bravely discussed everything from Home Rule to Woman Suffrage, and it is sincerely hoped that these speeches will be preserved and utilized at a later period for making a Utopia of the world. All the efforts were masterful, especially those of Ostracum White, Johnny Laird, and R. Harris. In this year our athletics struck a snag; for after defeating the lordly Seniors and cleaning up with the bloody Sophs, the Fresh, after being outplayed in two tie games, managed to luck out a touchdown, and the football cup went glimmering.

When the year of our seniority arrived we were able, because of our three-years' training to assume our dignified role rather easily, especially since we were addressed as "Mister" by certain newly-arrived Fresh, and answered with a "Yes, sir." But after all, this was rather foreign to the most important thing in our course; that scrap of sheepskin locally known as a "Dip." At this point we realized the many pitfalls and troubles of anybody seeking one of those things, and truly we began to work like sin. As long as the DuPont Powder Company remains in existence, and we are able to qualify as sharpshooters, we hope that we may be able to hit the target so effectively that we may some day earn the title of "alumni." The only other event of importance during our Senior year was the speaking, which was featured by the hundred yard dash of Guy Walker and Sammie Keesler's responsive reading with himself. Now, Gentle Reader, in turning the pages of this famous volume, you will doubtless gaze with admiration upon the classic features of those composing our class—especially Bill Mattison and Monk Mayfield, to say nothing of Dog-eye Howard. And a few years from now, when you take down the latest volume of "Who's Who in America," you may again renew acquaintance with the Class of Seventeen.

The manager is imploring us to cut out this line of junk, so that he can complete his volume and get some money for dopes and dope sticks. Selah.

QUIPS AND CRANKS

Senior Class Poem

At last 'tis past; it passed so fast
We stand aghast, and mutely cast
Our eyes back o'er the fading past.

For day by day, the gay or gray,
We climbed away, until today
We've reached a milestone in our way.

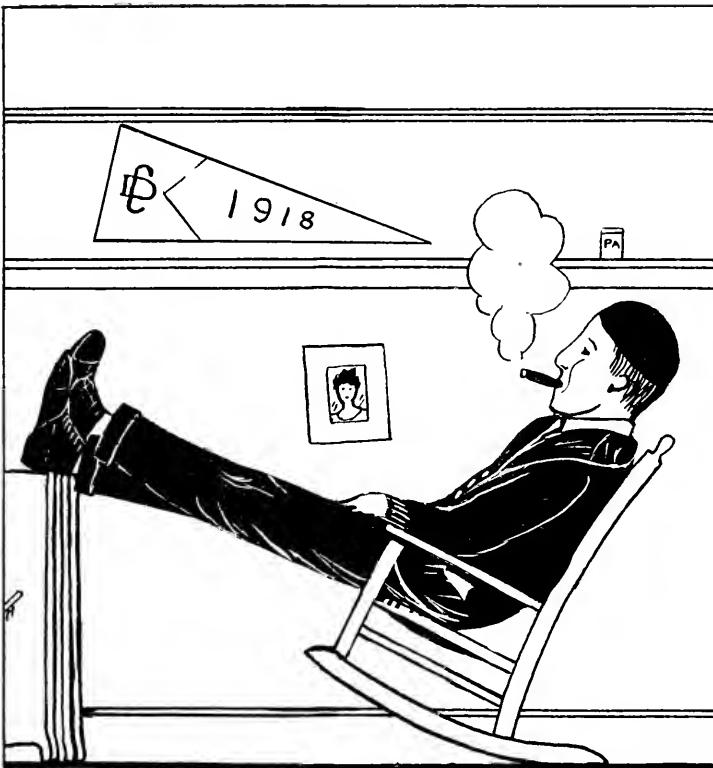

And so we know that though so slow
We seemed to grow, review doth show
A change, a growth unseen below.

And it is fit we sit a bit,
While memories flit and dwell, to wit,
On College and the friends of it.

And e'en though scene on scene be seen,
And intervene, and loom between,
We'll ne'er forget that which has been,
But ever cherish Seventeen.

Junior History

ESPITE the fact that the greatest war in history had just begun—despite the fact that the European countries were beginning a struggle to the death—despite the fact that our country was on the verge of a financial and industrial panic, there was assembled at Davidson College on September 7, 1914, a Freshman Class, one hundred and twenty strong. From the "Hills of Old Kentucky," the mountains of Tennessee, historic South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, from "Florida's tropic clime," and from all sections of the "Old North State" came the Class of Nineteen Eighteen.

We shall never forget our first impressions of Davidson College. Under the guidance of some of the kind upper classmen, we beheld for the first time the wide-spreading campus transformed by the gentle hand of summer, into an Eden of Green. We trod the historic walks; we slaked our thirst at the "Old College Well"—now, alas, a victim to the germ theory. We admired the Literary Society Halls, with the 1837 staring from every brickbat, and we thought of the masterful oratory, the logical arguments, and the superb declamations that had taken place within those quaint structures. We climbed the innumerable steps of Chambers, and from the cupola obtained a view of the campus, the town, and the surrounding country. In this manner we passed the first day of our college career, blissfully ignorant of what lay in store for us.

We were just preparing to retire when we heard strange cries, yells, songs, and an unearthly din just outside our windows. The Sophs were on the war-path! But why dwell on the horrors of that first night? Suffice it to say that from this time there sprang up a common tie that bound together the individuals of our class. Thus, we were introduced to Davidson College; thus the Class of Nineteen Eighteen was initiated.

With much zest we entered into the activities of college life. On the Varsity football team we were represented by Black, Bob Walker, Grey, and Austin; our basketball team, under the captaincy of Dutch Hengeveld, won the championship. Later in the year, we elected Childs president, being allowed to meet more or less peacefully in chapel, and not being compelled to take to the woods, for that rite. We gibed, and got paddled; it snowed, and we got half killed. But Commencement came at last, and with it the end of the days of our verdency.

We returned to Davidson the following September, the "wisest fools in Christendom." Led by Jamie Fowle, we made the campus hideous with "Oh, you Fresh, you'd better lie low," with the usual accompaniments of that classical ballad. We were just like all Sophs have to be—greatly loved by themselves, and as greatly detested by everybody else. What more need be said?

QUIPS AND CRANKS

This year we elected Lawson President. Again we were well represented on the gridiron. Our class teams won both the basketball and baseball championships. On the diamond, we were represented by Black, Lawson, Wood, Saunders, and Hengeveld; in scholarship we also excelled, having a goodly number of honor roll men, and also having one man to attain the highest average in college.

The historian would be delighted to tell a few more particulars of the life during our Junior Year, but Junior Speaking scared him so that he is only able to remember that the President of our Juniorhood is Buddha Woods. However, that speaking was a glorious success. We proved our ability as orators, we settled (at least to our own satisfaction) great national questions; we reformed the world ruthlessly. In fact, we informed the public gratuitously on subjects ranging from "The Tyrant in White" to "The Spirit of the Universe" and "The Evils of Alcohol."

Now, we are fast approaching the last stage of our college career. Soon, as Seniors, we shall shoulder additional responsibilities; let us prove ourselves worthy of every trust.

Lines Written After Junior Speaking

I know a maid, a fairy child,
Whose deep and dark blue eyes are mild,
And yet her glances drive me wild;
She stole my heart away!

I ne'er before saw maid like this;
From her I long to steal a kiss,
For then I'd always live in bliss;
She stole my heart away!

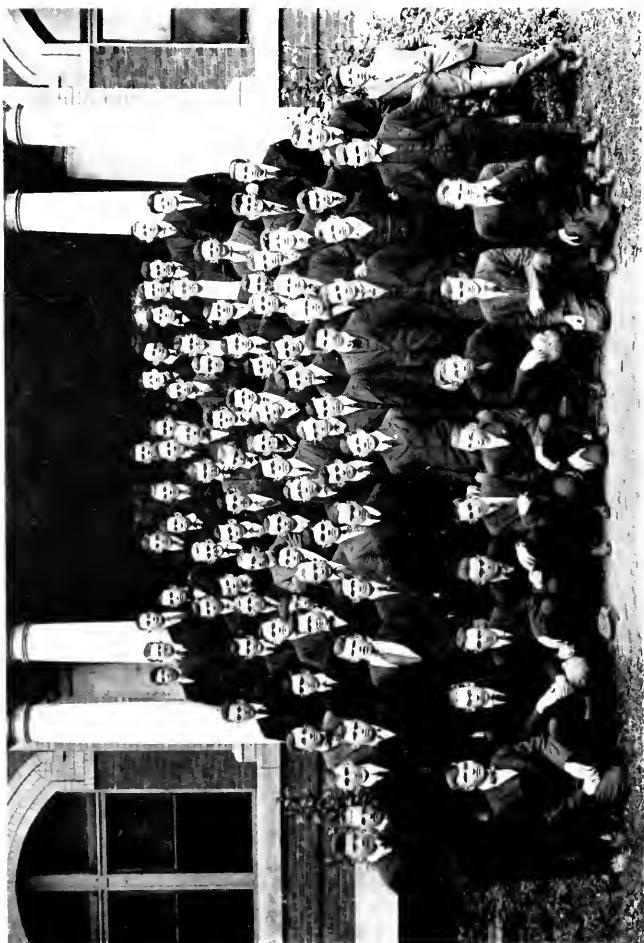

She'll soon be mine, for oh, the way
She smiles and laughs throughout the day
Affects me like clear morning's ray;
She stole my heart away!

Ain't It (Censored) To Be Poor?

(To T. W. H., Jr.*)

Oh, the face beneath her hat!
How I longed to look at that!
 How it caught me!
 How it brought me!
Made my heart go pit-a-pat!

Oh, the sweetness of her smile!
When she thought it was worth while,
 To enhance me
 And advance me
Up to heaven with her smile!

Oh, the light glint of her hair!
Oh, the laughing eyes that dare!
 How she mocked me!
 How it shocked me!
When I learned she didn't care!

For her heart would not stand true,
E'en the shows I took her to,
 E'en the dinners
 Could not win her's,
And my heart was deepest blue.

Some one else her 'phone was ringing,
And her door bell ding-a-ling;
 'Twas not I
 You'd esp'y
To her hand so fondly clinging.

With cruel fate I had to deal;
That chap owned a Hupmobile;
 If I'd save
 To my grave
I could scarcely buy one wheel.

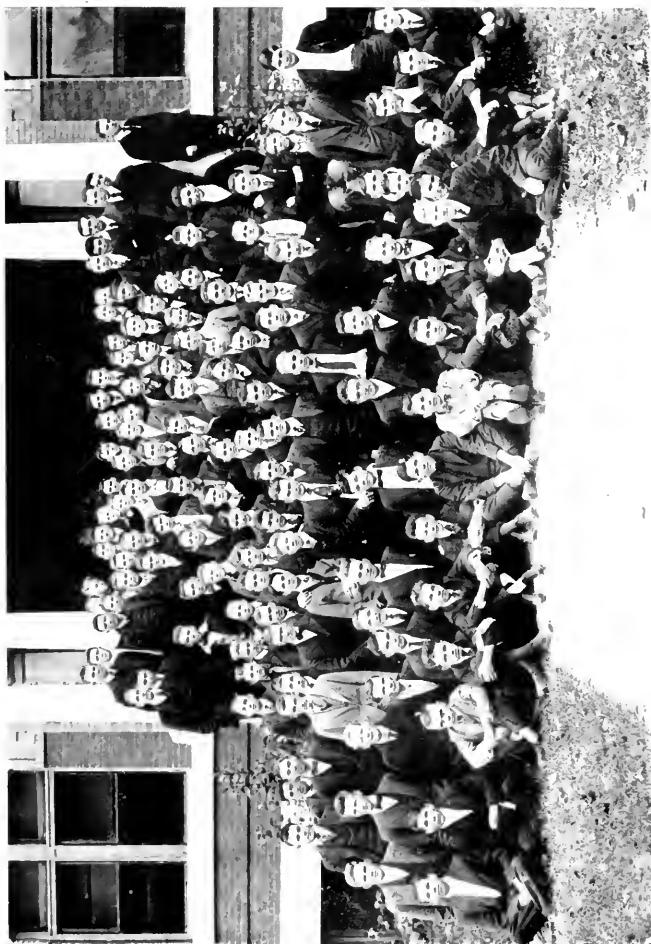

I will bear it if I must,
Walk along, and eat their dust;
 But I pray
 For the day
When that Hup will go to rust!

*Owing to a printer's error, the wrong make of car is used in this poem; it should be a higher-priced machine.

The Wearing of the Green

ANY and many a day ago, in a beautiful valley where the lilies bloomed by day and the frogs croaked by night, there lived a simple and glad-some youth. In bucolic bliss did he pass the days of his existence until there passed his way a certain book; then his heart changed, and he rose up early, and cast into his trunk his belongings, and took a fond farewell of his girl and all the spare cash of his father, and came unto Davidson.

Try hard as he may, the youth cannot tell how he acted when he came nigh unto the place; for the memory of such things is gone from him. But although his feelings were the feelings of a fool, he girded up his loins and looked him about, and saw about him many such as he. And this company gathered themselves together, and took unto themselves a name; and the name of that company was Fresh.

The manner of this company was as the manner of the green fields. Each morning they gathered themselves together at the chapel which is called Shearer and then scattered themselves among the various classrooms and gazed at the massive columns of their habitation, which is called Chambers. For the first month, the precious mites of dad's money were spent for postage stamps. They wrote to everybody and anybody; not because they had any reason for so doing, but because they were lonesome. But it is a long railroad that has no bend; and as the days rolled by their loneliness rolled away. Days passed, weeks passed, months passed— exams, came, and they passed—away from the historic campus to Home Sweet Home, and Mary Jane.

Now it came to pass that after the company had returned from the land of their joy, they did assemble themselves together, and said, "Behold, we will write us a history." And they appointed a certain one, and said, "Go to, write us a history." But he feared greatly, for he remembered the Chinese emperor who buried all historians alive. Whereupon he sat himself down and communed with himself, and his communings were sore travail. And he said in his heart, "I know full well that all the Freshmen will want their names mentioned in this history, with all their mighty deeds. But I have not room, so I will mention none, not even Pope."

But man is never more mortal than during his first year in college. Hence it would be well to draw a curtain over the past, and speak softly of bygone days. Therefore, Fair One whose eyes have thus far perused these straggling lines, if you find no definite records of this year's doing, remember that that is unnecessary. The gentleman who has been so kind as to show you this Annual will make a better historian—at least for you. But none can deny that in all things here said, the historian has told the truth, the whole truth, and a lot besides the truth!

The Squad

A CHAIN is only as strong as its weakest link; a football team is only as strong as its substitutes. During the season of nineteen sixteen, Davidson was more fortunate than she has been for several years past, in that she had a large number of second string men who were not only able to form a powerful scrub team for the Varsity to work against, but who gave the old men a hot tussle for their places. Indeed, no one was ever able to tell before a game exactly who "Bill" would send in, and the competition undoubtedly was a great factor in the success of the season.

Davidson has good cause to be, and is, proud of her substitutes. They could not, this year, win the coveted letter; but they have done the best they could, and we are confident that during the next season, many of them will wear with pride the block "D."

QUIPS AND CRANKS

W. M. FETZER

COACH

Much of the credit for the success of the 1916 season is due to the able coaching, undying "pep," and true sportsmanship of "Bill" Fetzer. Out of light, inexperienced material, he has developed a team of which any college might be proud.

C. L. WALKER, D

HALFBACK

For the fourth successive season, Steve proved the mainstay of our backfield. A consistent ground gainer, a terrific tackler, and a heady and clean player in every respect, he has won for himself a high place among Davidson's athletic heroes.

CAPTAIN B. N. WHITE, D

CENTER

Davidson may justly be proud of having as captain such a player as Ostreum. His inspiring leadership, as well as his spectacular playing, was always an inspiration to his team-mates. With his perfect passing, and his wonderful defensive work, he is one of the best centers Davidson has ever had.

CAPTAIN-ELECT R. B. WALKER, D

END

Under the leadership of so able a player as Bob, we may well expect great things of the 1917 team. His unanimous selection as all-state end shows better than mere words his great football ability. We wish him the best of success.

1917

QUIPS AND CRANKS

J. P. LAIRD, D

FULLBACK

Although handicapped by his light weight, Johnny again distinguished himself by his nerve and pluck. For four seasons he has given of his best to Davidson athletics, and his departure will be a source of sincere regret.

S. R. KEESLER, D

QUARTERBACK

The lightest, nerviest, headiest player on our team, Sam is at the same time one of the best quarterbacks ever seen at Davidson. The pivot of the backfield, a cool and able general, his place is one which will be hard to fill.

J. M. BLACK, D

HALFBACK

As an offensive player Jack was easily the star of every game in which he played. His line plunging was terrific, and his end runs always spectacular. We shall always wonder why he was not placed on the All South Atlantic team.

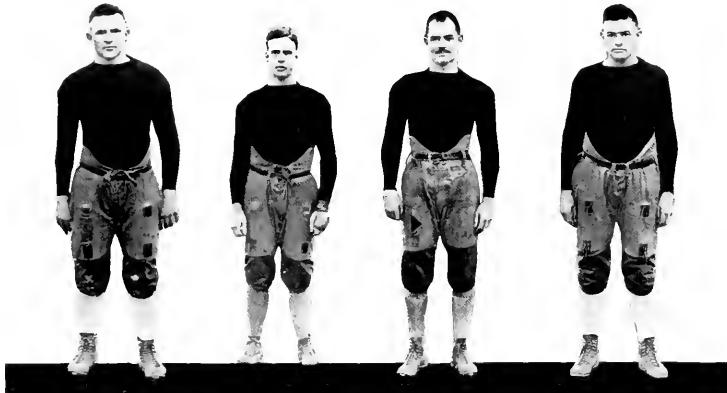

W. Y. SAYAD, D*

GUARD

"One of the features of the game was the playing of 'Billy' Sayad at guard"—thus the newspapers have always phrased it. Gritty and game, he could always be depended on, and many a worthy opponent has been told to "watch that little Persian in the line!"

1917

QUIPS AND CRANKS

H. M. GREY, D*
GUARD

A consistent player in every respect, we take off our hats to Wooly. With his weight and tremendous strength, he could always be depended on to tear open a hole in his opponent's line, and no one ever cared to take any liberties with his 180 pounds of muscle.

T. L. WHITE, D*
TACKLE

Playing his second season of Varsity football, Theron again proved himself a worthy wearer of the "D." Although handicapped by injuries during a large part of the season, he always showed himself a tackle to be feared.

W. D. LAWSON, D*
QUARTERBACK

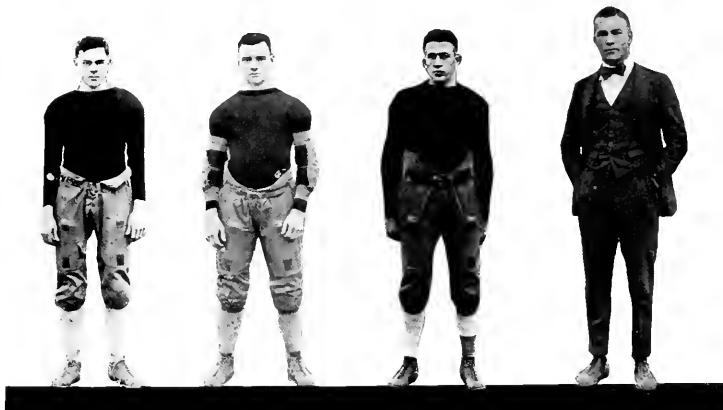

The forward passing of Legs was in a class by itself. Oftentimes when straight football failed, he was called upon, and never failed to deliver the goods. His long pass of forty-five yards was responsible for our touchdown against Carolina.

J. C. PAISLEY, D
GUARD

For three years Jack endured the hard knocks of a scrub, but this year, by his ability, gameness, and pep, he won the coveted "D." No man on the squad ever worked harder or more consistently than did Jack, and his loss will be felt next year.

1917

QUIPS AND CRANKS

J. A. SHAW, D
TACKLE

We must frankly admit it—Turk surprised us. Light and unknown to fame, he has developed into one of the best and trickiest tackles in the state. He was always full of fight from start to finish, and the longer he played the harder he fought.

A. C. BURNS, D
FULLBACK

From Buck's first appearance on Sprint Field, we have been looking for great things from him, and this season he has more than fulfilled our expectations. He hits the line like a bullet, and few are the times when he fails to make the necessary distance.

G. M. KING, D
END

Although kept out of the game during the first part of the season on account of injuries, George came back strong in the last two games. He is a sure tackler, and one of the best men at handling forward passes that we have seen in a long time.

A. B. REESE, D
MANAGER

To Al should be given the credit for the successful management of the 1916 season. Liked and respected by all the players, he has brought about the most successful season, financially, in all Davidson's athletic history.

QUIPS AND CRANKS

The Season

THE 1916 football season proved the most successful that Davidson has had in many years. The team made a wonderful showing. The opposing teams have almost without exception been picked from student bodies much larger than Davidson's, and have represented the best colleges of the South. By comparative scores the Davidson team ranks among the first in the South, and no one will gainsay that this honor has been a deserved one. The Red and Black team won five, lost three, and tied one. The games lost were without exception very close, and the games won were without exception clean cut and well-deserved victories.

While no credit for this splendid showing should be taken from the individual members of the squad, Coach Fetzer's name stands in the limelight, and he should be given all praise for his work with the Red and Black squad. He is indeed a coach to be proud of, and Davidson is indeed fortunate in having such a man to guide her athletic teams.

The first game of the season was played with Virginia. After this game, which resulted in a 14-0 score in favor of the Virginians, The Richmond Times Dispatch said: "The Presbyterians presented a steady team and during the entire second half outplayed Coach Evans' squad both on offense and defense."

On the following Saturday Davidson defeated A. and M. by the score of 16-0 in one of the fiercest games ever played on Wearn Field, completely mystifying the Farmers and tearing their athletic reputation to shreds.

Then came the trip to Georgia Tech. After playing rings around the Yellow Jackets for the first half, and carrying the ball over once only to have the touchdown disallowed on a foul, the Red and Black machine felt the effect of superior weight, and the score ended 9-0 in favor of Tech.

The team played a little below form in the Citadel game, the aerial game of the South Carolinians proving a puzzle. But Davidson more than made up for this off day by completely outclassing Roanoke on the next Saturday, piling up 20 points on the Salenites. Furman proved an easy victim, the score being 46-14.

Of the much lamented Carolina game, The Charlotte News has this to say: "The score—10-0—does not begin to tell the tale. It does not begin to show the superiority the Red and Black team showed over the Blue and White eleven—save in that important and intangible element known as luck. To a neutral observer there was not a bit of doubt but that Davidson outplayed the Carolina eleven throughout."

1917

QUIPS AND CRANKS

After defeating Wofford 32-0 in a game featureless except for the depth of mud on the field, the team played the final game of the season with Clemson in Charlotte. Of this game, The Charlotte News says: "When everything was over and an adding machine or two was brought into play, it was found that the Presbyterians had tied the Tiger tail into some thirty-three knots and the Davidson goal line was uncrossed. It was in many respects a great game, but the warriors from the Palmetto state were outclassed from beginning to end."

Thus closed the 1916 season—one of the most successful in Davidson's athletic history. To the manager, to the players, to the coach, nothing but praise is due.

It is doubtful if there has ever been a series so close; for the games won were both by one touchdown, and, with the exception of the Fresh-Soph game, the tie games were distinguished by an evenness of strength on each side that seemed impossible. Every man fought to the best ability for his class, and no one who played on these teams has cause for anything but a feeling of pride.

The Season

WITH the first sign of spring weather the 1916 baseball season was started with a rush. The old men first to report were: Captain Alford, Saunders, Lawson, Wood, Black, Hengeveld, Brown, Keesler, and Walker. Probably no season was ever started under more favorable circumstances, with Coaches Fetzer and Kluttz, two of the foremost scholars of the game in the South, to direct the team, and with such a goodly number of old men as a nucleus.

Manager R. G. Finley arranged a schedule which included the representative colleges of North and South Carolina. Catawba was the first team met and was easily defeated. Elon, Oak Ridge, Wake Forest, Richmond, and Wofford were next defeated in succession, the winning streak being finally broken by A. and M. in Gastonia. This game was admittedly a very poor exhibition by both teams. It was hoped that another game could be scheduled with A. and M., as Davidson and A. and M. were clearly entitled to first call for the state championship. Several dates were offered the Farmers, but as they had defeated all North Carolina colleges, they were not desirous of flirting with the championship in such a dangerous fashion.

Trinity was next met in Hickory, where the Presbyterians went down in defeat 3 to 2, owing to the absence of Captain Alford from the receiving end. The next day, however, Davidson met the Methodists at home and reaped a sweet revenge, by defeating the Bull Durhamites 18 to 10. The third and last college defeat was administered by Maryville College in a 3 to 2 game in which errors were the direct cause of defeat.

After losing close games to the Charlotte and Winston-Salem clubs of the Carolina League, the Red and Black started on a victorious sweep of South and North Carolina. Seven games were played on this trip, all of which resulted in victories for the Fetzerites. Wofford, at Spartanburg, was the first to go down, by the score of 9 to 3. Next was Furman, who received a double dose of defeat at the hands of the Presbyterians. These two games were characterized by hard hitting and airtight pitching on the part of Lawson and Hengeveld. From Greenville they turned their forces northward, and their victorious march through North Carolina was started. Guilford was met and defeated in Greensboro. Elon next met defeat, for the second time, and then Trinity got hers in the deciding game of the Presbyterian-Methodist series. The last game of the trip was with Wake Forest, who were slaughtered by the Presbyterians, 6 to 3. The last game of the season was with Washington and Lee University on the Hill. This game was largely attended, and it was a pretty sight to see the Presbyterians play rings around the Generals. The game was tucked safely away early, the score being 13 to 2.

No small part of the credit for this splendid season must go to Coaches Fetzer and Klutzz, who worked harder than any men on Sprunt Field for the team. They took raw material and did the most difficult thing a coach has to do—rounded it into a winning and smoothly running machine.

It would be almost impossible to mention individual stars without naming the entire team. However, if a choice were attempted, it seems that the laurels should go first to Captain Alford, who by his consistent hitting and steady work behind the bat was a large factor in the team's success. The pitching honors go to Lawson and Hengeveld, both of whom twirled great steady ball. Black, Wood, Johnson, and Saunders composed a strong and well-balanced infield. The outfield, composed of Brown, McMillan, and Younger, measured up well with the best. The three leading hitters were Captain Alford, whose average was .349; McMillan, .318; and Saunders, .313. The batting average of the team as a whole was .271.

The Season

ALTHOUGH the season was begun later than has been the practice at Davidson, the basketball record of the Red and Black during the 1916-1917 season has been an excellent one. Due to difficulties in arranging a schedule, practice did not begin until after the Christmas holidays; but when it did start, the team more than made up in snap and ginger what they had lost in time. The first game was played on the Hill, January 13, with the Charlotte Y. M. C. A. and although practice had been going on barely a week, the visitors were completely swamped, the score being 00-22. On January 19 the team went to Charlotte, and defeated the Y. M. C. A. on their home floor, 50-33, in a game which was featured by the wonderful playing of Childs, who, at forward, scored 16 points in the first half. On the following night Davidson won a hard-fought game from Statesville, the score being 34-31.

On January 26 Davidson made it three straights from Charlotte to the tune of 49 to 34, features being the playing of Murray and King. Then Stetson University was met on the home floor, and conquered by the score of 47 to 14. Although several regulars were out of both this and the last Charlotte game, the substitutes filled their places very creditably.

On January 29 the team started on a seven day tour of the state. The first defeat of the season was inflicted by Winston, the score being 33 to 28. The features of this game were Childs' steady playing, and a goal from one end of the floor to the other by Al Reese. The second game of the trip was played with Guilford Davidson winning 30-27. Bob Walker shot a goal in this game. The next night Elon was defeated 31-20, and the team went to Durham with high hopes. However, "you can't win 'em all," and the game went to Trinity, the score being 32-26. On the following night the Hornets reaped a sweet revenge on the University, who, after spurring dangerously in the last half, were met by another and bigger spurt and defeated, 36-31. The team then journeyed to A. and M. and in a game which was one of the snappiest of the whole season were defeated by the score of 32-26.

The last game of the trip was with Wake Forest, which had a record of unbroken victories on its home floor since 1913. The game was hard fought and brilliantly contested, but the Davidson offense proved too strong for the Baptists, and they finally succumbed. The score was 26-19.

QUIPS AND CRANKS

Returning home, Davidson defeated Elon in a poorly played game, featured by the ovation accorded Bob Walker on the occasion of his shooting another goal. The next game, with Statesville, was lost to the Fredell countians by the close score of 30 to 28. The Red and Black then won its second game from Guilford, the issue being decided by Al Reese's shooting a foul goal just as time was called making the score 19-18. Then followed the fourth game with Charlotte, which Davidson won without much trouble, outclassing the Y. M. C. A. men and coming out at the big end of a 36-14 score.

The last game of the season was played with Statesville, and although Davidson fought like demons, the Statesville team, champions of the state, finally won by a close score.

In reviewing a season such as this, it is always hard to pick out individual stars; especially is this true of this season, for it can be truthfully said that every man on the team rose to the position of star. However, if called on to name those whose work inspired the greatest terror in their opponents, first place must be given to Captain "Dutch" Hengeveld, and Al Reese. "Dutch," at center, not only was generally entirely too big for the opposing middle man to handle, but he was also a dependable scorer. Reese, playing running guard, developed the habit of making sensational shots that no ordinary player would even try; and when the other side had a foul called on them, they knew right then that Davidson's score would be raised one point without much further ado. The work at forward of King, Childs, Wood and Murray was excellent, and the guarding of Bob Walker was a nightmare to every man who ever played against him.

Altogether, the work of the team as a whole was exceptionally good; and since most of the men have one or more years still to play, we may expect even greater things for basketball at Davidson in the future.

INSTEAD of playing the tennis tournament soon after the opening of college, the association decided, this year, to postpone it till October, thereby giving more time for practice and for perfection in team work. As a result, the playing was above the average, and the contest was much closer than has heretofore been the case. After a hard fight, in which the result was in doubt till the very end, the finals, played between Hall and Spence, and Saunders and Hawkins, were won by the latter. For the second year in succession, the singles championship was won by Saunders, the finals being played with Price.

No intercollegiate matches were played during the fall, but Manager Kennedy hopes to arrange for several in the spring term, with some of Davidson's old tennis rivals. The team is a strong one, both in singles and doubles, and we feel confident that they will make a showing which will be a credit both to themselves and to the College.

THROUGH the exception of gymnasium work, which is soon to be placed on a more secure footing, track work is probably Davidson's least-developed branch of athletics. In the spring of 1916, however, more interest began to be taken in the work, and under the leadership of Captain Morrison and Coach Kluttz a team was evolved which made good beginning for Davidson in the field of intercollegiate track work. Several meets were held, the last, with Clemson, being the first on the Hill for several years, and probably the most exciting ever seen here. At no time were the contestants separated by more than five points, and when Davidson won, it was by the margin of one sport. The work of Brand, Crouch, Worth, and Younger was especially good.

Although a large part of this team was lost by graduation or failure to return to college, an abundance of new material makes the prospects for this spring good, and under the leadership of Coach Fetzer we may expect to see this once neglected sport take its proper place among Davidson's athletic activities.

Ah, so unfortunate,
Lacking in breath;
Rashly importunate,
Flirting with death.

Take him up gently,
Lift him with care;
Lying so limply,
Young, and so fair.

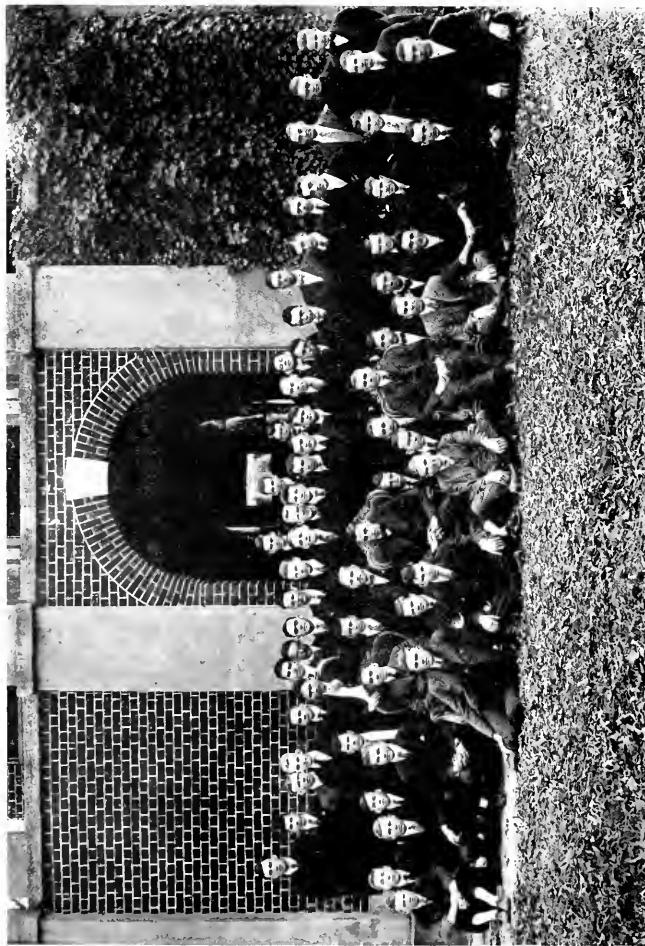

Look at his garments
Covered with mud;
Those mighty arms of his,
Splattered with blood!

Still for all the slips of his,
One of Billy's family—
Wipe that poor nose of his,
Oozing so clamminly.

Owning his weakness,
The words that would shock her,
And leaving with meekness
His hurts for the doctor

Debating

OLLOWING a custom started two years ago, Davidson this year put out two debating teams, the first of which debated Emory College, at Agnes Scott, and the second, Roanoke College, at Roanoke. The contest for places on the teams was spirited, and much rivalry was manifested in the preliminaries, which were held about the middle of February. As the teams were finally picked, that which debated Emory was composed of W. H. Neal and G. C. Bellingsrath, with R. W. Cousar as alternate. They upheld the negative of the question, "Resolved, That employers and employees of public service corporations should be compelled to settle their disputes by arbitration."

The team which debated Roanoke was composed of J. A. Thames and R. H. Ratchford, with L. H. Eikel as alternate. They took the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That the United States should adopt a system of universal compulsory military service."

Intercollegiate debating is assuming a greater and greater importance among Davidson's activities, the college having made a remarkable record in that department of work. There is more popular interest in the subject each year, and the prospects are very encouraging for a future that will outshine even the good record of the past.

The Order of the Gryphon

The Order of the Gryphon is an organization composed of members of the Senior Class of Davidson College, whose object it is to stimulate interest in the welfare of the College, and to do everything in their power, both individually and as a body, for its upbuilding. A medal is offered each year by the Order to the man who, in the estimation of a body of judges, has done the most for the College during his course.

The members of the Order from the Class of 1917 are:

The Mimir Society

The Mimir Society was organized at Davidson College in 1915, by several members of the faculty and graduating class of that year. The rules governing election to membership are in part as follows:

1. Members will be elected at the close of each year from the Senior and rising Senior classes, from the men of those classes who have made an average grade for three consecutive years of at least 93; who have done three-fourths of the work required for a degree at Davidson College; and who have completed all non-elective work.
2. No man who has attained a grade of less than ten points above the passing mark, or who has failed on a term's work in any course, shall be eligible for membership.
3. The total number elected from each class shall not exceed fifteen per cent. of the members graduated from that class.

The emblem of the society is a small gold pin, representing a raven perched upon a crescent, upon which is inscribed the word "Mimir."

The members of the society for the present year are, from the faculty, Prof. J. L. Douglas, Dr. C. R. Harding, Dr. T. W. Lingle, Dr. J. M. McConnell, Dr. W. J. Martin, and Dr. M. E. Sentelle. The members from the Class of 1917 are S. T. Henderson, H. A. Campbell, and F. M. Mitchell.

ODDS AND ENDS

How to Become a College Sport

Traditional Idea

1. Get a collar one size too small and two inches too high.
2. Have a suit made to order from "latest styles." Consider it a crime if said suit is not constantly altered and pressed.
3. Procure an imported pipe with a sweeping downward curve. Display whenever on campus.
4. Get the "college slouch" and seem always fatigued.
5. Always show your anger, and follow said exposition with appropriate remarks.
6. Get a heavy valise—like the ones you see in the pictures. Carry it around whether you are going away or not.
7. Get a banjo or mandolin, and show it on all occasions. Musical talent is absolutely unnecessary.
8. Purchase anything that doesn't look like a hat, or buy one and mutilate it beyond the slightest resemblance. Wear this anywhere except on top of the head.
9. Sing your "rah rah" with gusto, when you get back home.
10. Speak constantly of "them good old college days."
11. Learn to swing a gold-headed cane and lead around a vicious dog.
12. Keep your light burning till 12, although you go to bed at 7.
13. Mutilate the buildings with class numerals, and grace them with your own important initials.
14. Tell the ones back home you didn't want to make all the teams.
15. Tell them that college life is worth more than book marks and uphold this theory by your conduct.
16. Have class spirit, to the dismay of Freshmen.
17. Buy everything advertised for a college man.
18. Buy pennants, trophies, etc., by the score in wholesale lots.
19. Show your bank roll on every occasion and refer to your "small change."
20. Act the fool in general.

QUIPS AND CRANKS

Calendar

SEPTEMBER 7—College opens and we find in our midst many new and interesting creatures, most of them members of the genus homo sapiens (strong emphasis being placed on the "Sapiens"). We are also treated to a view of the latest styles in caps.

SEPTEMBER 11—John Pharr makes a rich find for the Glee Club in the person of one Red Smith, who sings a sweet and melodious soprano. The Glee Club studs tell us that he can go up to Z and stay there five minutes.

SEPTEMBER 16—Eddie Burns, Pete Carwile, Whatyoumaycall'em Hollands-worth and Emery Flinn join the Eumenean Literary Society. Instantaneously intercollegiate debating stock takes a jump upward.

SEPTEMBER 29—Our football warriors leave for the University of Virginia. Buck Burns does not sleep well in the Pullman, as the hammock was too small for a "real man." He says he would rather sit up than try to sleep in that thing.

SEPTEMBER 30—We play Virginia and lose a hard-fought game. Theorem White wants to know if you have to take German to belong to the German Club.

OCTOBER 2—Wright wants to know if it takes a very delicate scale to weigh a pencil mark.

OCTOBER 6—Annuals come (last year's, of course). The editor experiences a new-found sensation!??*&

OCTOBER 7—General exodus for Charlotte and A. and M. game. We win 16-0. The A. and M. Coach uses slang terms which would make a Junior Chemistry student blush with chagrin. Potts caught on baldhead row at the Piedmont. All are impressed with the Hula-hula girl there.

OCTOBER 9—We are treated (?) to the first agony of Red Laird's Lyceum. "Dear Willie" (NOT Keesler) is eulogized, and we are given a glowing recital of the "Littlest Rebel." However, the real feature of the show was the dramatic presentation of "Ten Nights in a Bathub."

OCTOBER 12—Teddie Cashion informs the instructor in English that Shakespeare lived in the early part of the nineteenth century, was a playmate of Kipling and Columbus (the man who disgusted America).

QUIPS AND CRANKS

OCTOBER 14—We play Tech in Atlanta. "Big Ben" White (so called from his vocal attainments) has a strong delegation of feminines from his home city to see the game. Wooly Grey receives a visitor at the Ansley. "Chawmed, dontcherknow." Knight can't sleep so "good" that night as the night before, due to the fuss on the street. He said it did look like they would catch up with their hauling, some time, down there.

OCTOBER 19—Dr. Harding conducts chapel. An important meeting of the Missouri Club is called.

OCTOBER 20—R. U. Woods (?) explains the principle of the crane (Paludiocae) on Physics Review. P. H. Humphrey is dumbfounded. Woody Clark caught trying to heat water on an asbestos pad.

OCTOBER 21—Chief Justice Stubbs Brown hands down his first judicial decision. We storm the Citadel, but were unlucky—as usual—and only tied them. Count Elmore makes his debut immediately after the game.

OCTOBER 23—Water wagon, scion of the canine family, and returned officer of the National Guard at Chapel. The returned officer makes a speech. Marshals are elected, following the usual course of bull about how good-looking so and so is, etc. (emphasis on the etc.).

OCTOBER 27—Unlucky day—also Davidson College Day. Place overflows with Pep (not Patterson) when new hymn to Davidson is sung to tune of the "Old Gray Mare."

Soc Chambliss eats an inferior breakfast. It seems that hash slinging and heroine-ing do not mix well. Some one with a heart fatally bent on mischief changes the position of the steam roller.

OCTOBER 30—Football team returns. Welcome address is made from a corner room of Rumble, which is the scene of much activity.

OCTOBER 31—Virginia goes dry. We have numerous prohibition talks. One prohibition lecturer states that prohibition will be a great thing and a lasting benefit for the country, but who wants to live in the country?

NOVEMBER 4—Furman walloped. Wilson-Hughes debate in the Eu. Society has a direct bearing on the election. We enjoy the second Lyceum number—two. Peter Saunders appears in a stiff boiled collar and introduces the Lyceum stars.

NOVEMBER 6—Alabama Club meets. The photographer comes, sees, and conquers.

1917

QUIPS AND CRANKS

NOVEMBER 7—Election day. Great rejoicing when Arkansas goes solid for Wilson and Mecklenburg goes solid for Buck Doty. Later in the night, Hall, Hennessee, and Potts plan trips abroad. Enoch, Potts, Hughes and other great Republicans jubilant.

NOVEMBER 8—Watchful waiting.

NOVEMBER 9—Wilson elected. Potts discovered under the bed. Various individuals plan to stay away from the Carolina game. Some one puts up an ad for two months board.

NOVEMBER 10—Yellow journalism makes its appearance. Its feature is the poem (!) "I am bound, I am bound, in a prison and cannot get out." Shameless mendacity, when three trains a day would take the sufferer to Charlotte! Lash Thomas and Guyrene Humphrey take a sudden liking to tennis. However, they do not oppose each other.

NOVEMBER 10—The Fraternity cup is awarded. "Smiles and tears."

NOVEMBER 11—Johnny Boy Daffin finds it necessary to go to Charlotte, Carolina game at Winston, where we receive a bitter dose of "Davidson Luck." Pharr and Laird speak at the banquet. "Call for Mr. Buck Doty" resounds through the halls of the Zinzendorf.

NOVEMBER 12—Goodness gracious, my me, gee whillikens whiz! Get the ammonia and smelling salts! Charlotte Observer admits that Davidson should have beaten Carolina! Truly, the millenium is near!

NOVEMBER 14—"Hoch der Kaiser" means "down with the Kaiser." That's right, for Wright said it was right, and he ought to know whether a thing is right or not right.

NOVEMBER 15—Militarism appears in our midst. In spite of Rachel Harris' Senior speech, Major General Herrman issues a call for volunteers.

NOVEMBER 16—Amo Love caught in a compromising position with his math. book: (i. e., studying)—(Apologies to "Fair and Warmer").

NOVEMBER 16—Great is our joy. Maude returns from Durham.

NOVEMBER 17—Captain White calls up the police station in Spartanburg to talk to his girl. Funny place for a girl to be. Possibly she is a cop's daughter.

QUIPS AND CRANKS

NOVEMBER 18—The Law Club is formed after fitting ceremonies. A long and sightly tiresome lecture was given by Chief Justice Pharr. He spoke at length on such subjects as "Equity Jurisprudence," "The Fundamental Rights in Rem," "The Doctrines of Stare Decisis and Obiter Dictum," and so on. For a copy of this speech see Cyc. Vol. 3. Numerous comments were made on this club by the state's leading secular and religious newspapers.

NOVEMBER 27—Woody Clark has to meet the Absence Committee. It was unintentional, however.

NOVEMBER 30—We all gird up our loins and descend on Charlotte. 'Tis truly a great occasion. Tom Misenheimer has trouble getting into the game, but finally succeeds. Big dance at the Manufacturer's Club, where Johnny Laird succeeds in doing the one step to waltz music, and Billy Hennessee forms a lasting friendship with Count Elmore. Big reception at Queens, where Joe Morton works out strong, (but not with Miss Askew).

DECEMBER 1—Senior speaking starts. Fresh Morton (not Joe), has a monopoly on the girls. We are tortured with the same old oratory, and every evil known to mankind is discussed and remedied in the space of about ten minutes per evil.

DECEMBER 4—Ach, vimmen, luly vimmen, you iss gone! The postoffice business takes on a boom.

DECEMBER 5—Stokes Lott pays the Hill a visit and goes on a class. No other practical jokes were attempted.

DECEMBER 9—The time which to all must come is upon us. Examinations begin. John Pharr gets sick.

DECEMBER 10—New trains put on. Great rejoicing among those who have a lust for traveling.

DECEMBER 18—The snow, the snow, the beautiful snow. But what's the use. The good old days are fled, and a Freshman is just as safe in the snow as a fish in the Catawba.

DECEMBER 19—Watts and Rumple have their annual battle. Rumple is repulsed with great slaughter. The outstanding features of the combat were Sterling Hunter's (not silver) race, and Billy Sayad's verbal encounter with Count Elmore.

QUIPS AND CRANKS

DECEMBER 20—John Pharr has a sudden and miraculous cure from his sickness contracted from undue exposure to Senior Law exam. on December 9. We all—nearly all at least, leave for home. For a true and unparalleled account of the doings of those who were so fortunate as to hallow the campus by their presence during the holidays, see other portions of "Quips and Cranks."

JANUARY 4—Back we come, each with a new photo or two on his dresser and a bigger tale than anybody else. Bub Shaw announces his intention of making the punctuality roll.

JANUARY 5—Geology students greatly incensed that they are still without an instructor in that gentle science.

JANUARY 8—Certain members of the Fresh Class find their hats entirely too small for them.

JANUARY 9—Said members of said class find it more comfortable to stand than to sit.

JANUARY 15—Bob Jones returns. He determines to write a book entitled the "Trials and Tribulations of B. Jones."

JANUARY 20—The battle cry of "Eddie Burns, yes he does," is heard over the campus. Pharr and Lott, our two poet laureates, each claim the honor of originating this slogan.

JANUARY 21—Eddie falls in the fire, and immediately the slogan changes to "Eddie's burnt, yes he is."

JANUARY 23—Bill Lawson and Buck Brown find the initiation into the Yiddish Club very trying, so they give up for a time both work and play, and apply themselves to a light study of the Psychology of Dreams.

JANUARY 25—Joe Morton pulls letter number two. Joe's classroom work the next day was rather flighty and romantic.

JANUARY 26—Pep Patterson released from the Infirmary. He brings with him a dray load of correspondence, mostly in feminine handwriting. The Assasinated Press refuses to confirm the rumor that he wrote a 118 page letter to his girl (girl No. 23A) and got a 125 page answer; therefore we shall not print this information.

JANUARY 28—Pike Aiken accidentally goes to church without his "brain food;" the way he snored was a sin!

1917

QUIPS AND CRANKS

FEBRUARY 2—The groundhog gets scared and returns to his hole. Some say it was his shadow he was afraid of, but the weight of authority inclines to the belief that he must have got a glimpse of Ostracum White's Bathrobe.

FEBRUARY 13—Junior-Senior football game. Score 0-0 in favor of the Seniors. Turk Shaw, Jack Black, Bob Richardson, and numerous others heard to assert tearfully that "it was just hard luck." Nat Armistead takes "twilight sleep" and misses "Fair and Warmer."

FEBRUARY 19—Turk Shaw up before the Student Council for gibing.

FEBRUARY 29—Pep Patterson does not write a letter to a girl. Tom Henderson retires from politics.

MARCH 2—Junior speaking is upon us. Wright, Humphrey, Daffin, Keesler, and Patterson each have down a Queen of the Human race or two, to tread the erstwhile unhallowed domains of Davidson College, and be enlightened about the situation with Germany, by almost anybody, and America's trade after the war, by Bob Jones.

MARCH 3—Carrie Nation Pharr and John B. Gough Walker discuss the evils of alcohol.

MARCH 5—The various Queens of the Human Race depart. "Turn back the Universe and give me yesterday" most popular song on the campus.

(At this stage, we must quit; for, gentle reader, be it known that the perpetrator of this article has fallen for the charms of a fair one whom he met at Junior Speaking, and now writes to her alone. Hence, he cannot carry his calendar any farther. Hoping you are the same, etc., etc.).

EXTRA

MARCH 9—The following report was turned in from the ringside by special reporter, W. A. Hall: "Gunboat Smith and Knock-em-out Spence clashed today in a twenty-round bout for the Police Gazette Belt for the Championship of Barne's Boarding House. It was easily the greatest match since Battling Bub Shaw knocked out Jess Smoak in 1915 at Reno. The veteran fight promoter, Kid Doty, refereed the bout, and to him much of the success which attended the meeting is due. The two fighters fought with a vim, and each took a great deal of punishment. For the first ten rounds neither could gain any advantage, but finally, after both men had placed some telling blows, Gunboat's weight and brute strength began to tell on his opponent, who was gasping for breath and sparring wildly. At the end of the twentieth round neither had been able to gain a knock-out, so the decision was awarded to Smith on points, as he clearly had the better of Spence most of the way through."

As soon as Gunboat's massive muscles are supplied out, his manager will be ready to match him with any and all comers.

Watts Chapter

Established 1908

The presence of this organization among the fraternities at Davidson College remained unsuspected till 1910, when Mr. Elijah B. E. Wright, in the midst of his ramifications among things fraternal, brought its ritual to the light of day.

The origin of the organization is shrouded in mystery; but the investigations of one Ussher trace its history in an unbroken line back to 4004 B. C. The Watts Chapter was established in 1908. Meetings are held daily at 8.15 a. m., when matters of interest, including the day's lessons, the Germans (not dances), and the state of the atmosphere are freely discussed. In case a member is negligent in the performance of his duties, he is put on probation at one of the drug stores till he becomes more proficient.

"Gone But Not Forgotten"

VER SINCE the dust began to accumulate in the halls of Chambers, it has been the custom for some component parts of the Flower of Southern Manhood to spend the Yuletide among the ancient trees and ancient-er dormitories of Davidson College. Nineteen-sixteen was no exception to this rule. After the last Soph Bible question had been deciphered, the last Fresh English paper handed in, and the last Eco. exam. pledged, there were left on the Hill about a dozen students—brave souls, who had felt it their duty to perpetuate the old custom, and keep the college in order during the holidays.

It was indeed a choice company which was left behind. There was Eddie Childs, the basketball hero; Walter Alexander Johnson, Esq., of kodak and Shu-fixery fame; Hon. Guy Walker, the social lion; Andrew Brown, the assiduous wooer of Morpheus—after one a. m. Moreover, there were several representatives from the Class of 1920, among the most conspicuous being Red Sullivan, Terrell Guy, and Fresh Harrell. Mention should also be made of Cream-of-Wheat Bird. This motley array was chaperoned by Tom Mitchell and Hays Bennett, the latter of whom broke under the strain and left for parts unknown just before the holiday season was over.

After a few very decided jerks on December 24, caused by the postoffice's being open on that date, the festivities began. Although the cabarets on Broadway had been closed by order of the police force, the people of the village, true to the promises contained in the Davidson College Catalogue (see page 113 of that veracious publication), did all in their power to give the students a true home life. The week was a glorious one, filled with theatre parties, solos by Sam Brady, and frenzied games of "Up-Jinks" and "Hearts." It was brought to a fitting climax on Saturday night, when the beauty and chivalry of Davidson turned out to a basketball game between the students and town boys, and, with the exception of Ted Cashion and one or two others, didn't get home till morning. Incidentally, the college boys won. Score, 11-10.

But the festivities reached their height on the first night of the year 1917, in a masquerade party at the Morrison Memorial Hall. The spacious ballroom had been tastefully decorated with pine, cedar, tissue paper, and a phonograph, and presented an entrancing spectacle. The daintily curved light globes were made more attractive by the use of green crepe paper, which was so effective that the chaperones were unanimously in favor of a little more light on the subject. The punch was short in quantity, but long in quality (it is rumored that Harrell will shortly accept a position as punch maker with either Delmonico or Smiley) and was spiked—with ginger ale. Into this beautiful hall came a vast crowd, representing the elite of the state, from Huntersville to Brevard, and clad in costumes that defy description. The party itself went off as swimmingly as the life of a suffragette's husband. Johnson was heard to complain bitterly that Harrell and Brown always had business on the sofa when they were needed most, and it is rumored that several times he slipped out to express his private sentiments to the wintry air. But after all, it was a great affair, and one that will not be soon forgotten. The revelry continued late into the night, and by the time the guests began to "homeward wend their weary way," Davidson was in darkness. All the lights on the White Way had been extinguished, and the difficulty of negotiating Main street, led, it is rumored, to unnecessary loitering on the way by two or three couples, to the great detriment of conventionality and public sentiment. Detective Burns has been hired to work on the case, and it will doubtless be cleared up shortly.

The whole season was brought to a beautiful close on Tuesday night, by the 400 of Davidson. Regular Davidson weather had now taken charge, and after a number of guessing games, not the least interesting of which was trying to find out who was game, the homeward swim began. In order to prevent the loitering which, we fear, characterized this night as well as the one before, we would suggest that the White Way be kept lighted after 8.30, so that so many shines will not be ruined in crossing the busiest part of Main Street and Concord Avenue.

On Wednesday morning, most of the visitors left our city, and the flock of punctuality roll aspirants came early to avoid the rush. The deserted campus soon took on its wonted aspect again; the brave students who had remained regretfully took stock of their crepe-de-chine handkerchiefs, and idly turned the pages of their math. books, thinking meanwhile of blue eyes, golden hair, ruby lips, and so on. After months have passed, each one of that noble band might still say, with Mr. Moore, of Soph-English fame:

Oft, in the stilly night,
Ere slumber's chain has bound me,
Fond memory brings the light
Of other days around me."

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Mme. Millie Morton and Mlle. Petrova Mitchell will appear at the Nevermiss Theatre soon in their stupendous self-supporting suspender triumph. "Jackpot Jennie," by the infamous dramatist Sapolio Chambliss. Endorsed by the leading fatheads of the age.

Mlle. Mitchell will positively wear the Black diamonds and $200,000 worth of clothes in this production.

Note—Clothes are very expensive.

Both of these notorious actresses have played before and with the crowned heads of Europe, Africa, and Mecklenburg County, and it is said that Mme. Morton once had the pleasure of looking into the faces of four kings at the same time.

Mme. Morton before her marriage was one of the niftiest girlettes of Iredell County.

The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of new golf clothes for that deserving prodigy, Mlle. Evelyn Nisbet.

"That Reminds Me"

WHY SOME OF US FLUNK

Tubalcain was the daughter of Lamech, who was the first polygamist.—Tennessee.

Tubaleain was a great preacher, who married when young and met with many other great misfortunes.—A. Wilson.

Tubalcain was the father of brass and iron.—Pip Watt.

A law is something proved beyond doubt or superstition.—J. B. Sizer.

The fundamental rights in rem are murder, larceny, and the p.o'ection o friends.—Pharr.

The boundaries of the Promised Land were the Tigris River and the Mississippi River.—Pope.

Tyre is on the river Nile, northwest of the Persian Gulf.—Liston.

The rivers of Eden were the Tigris, Euphrates, and Styx.—Chalmers.

OH, THIS IS SO SUDDEN!

Potts (at boarding house): Brother Inman, will you ask grace?

JUST IT!

HUGHES: What did you wake me up for? I was sound asleep.

RANKIN: That's just it. There was too much sound.

GOOD WORK

FRIERSON: I hear Esau Harris is coming on our floor soon. They say he's a finished violinist.

FANT (seriously): Good! Who did it?

SPEAKING OF OBVIOUS QUESTIONS—AND ANSWERS—

PROF.: In how many states does matter exist?

STOGNER: Forty-eight, Doctor.

SOCIETY AS SHE IS DID

Fair young thing (during the Christmas holidays): Mr. Walker, won't you come in?

WALKER G.: Don't look like I am, does it?

YOU CAN'T STALL THIS MAN

DR.: Mr. Rankin, were the Pharisees or the Saducees more numerous?

NICK: Well, Doctor, the Pharisees were more numerous, but there were more of the Saducees.

QUIPS AND CRANKS

SAMPLES OF THIS COLLEGE WIT

The Davidsonian ought to be a hot sheet this year, since it is being issued under the blanket system.

It's a funny thing that when Cupid hits his mark he generally Mrs. It. And so on ad infinitum. Ain't it awful?

NEXT!

Some Freshman wants to know if the crime of murder would be committed if Mann killed Bird.

NATURALLY

DR.: Mr. Love, in what circumstances was Job at the time of his decease?

AMO.: Dead, Doctor.

SUCH THINGS DO HAPPEN IN THE BEST REGULATED FAMILIES

PROF.: Mr. Brown, how was Alexander of Russia killed?

BUCK.: By a bomb.

PROF.: Well, can't you give some more particulars?

BUCK.: It exploded.

ON FRESH BIBLE

DR.: What kind of country was Canaan?

SPANN.: A land flowing with milk and cream, Doctor.

WELL HIDDEN

McASKILL.: Cheer up, Slime. Your luck may be a blessing in disguise.

HARRIS.: Well, it's about the best disguise you ever saw.

NOTHING TO BE PROUD OF

VISITOR (on third floor Watts): I understand you are quite musical up here. They tell me you boast of a guitar, two violins, three mandolins, a French Harp and a Cornet.

JOHN D.: Huh, we don't boast of them. We endure them with resignation.

FROM OUR CONTEMPORARIES

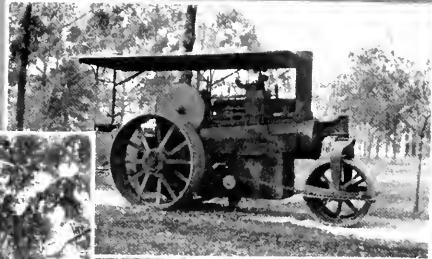

In days of old, when knights were bold,
And sheet-iron trowsers wore,
They lived in peace, for then one crease,
Would last ten years or more.—Davidsonian

"Pray let me kiss your hand," said he,
With looks of burning love;
"I can remove my veil," said she,
"More easily than my glove."—liken

He called her a lemon nice,
And said "I'll be the squeezer;"
She handed him lemon ice,
And said, "Then I'll be the freezer."—Baby Gus

Dont's for Freshmen and Future Freshmen

1. Don't try to show off your new suitcase. We know it was borrowed for the occasion anyway.
2. Don't ask for the President's office. You will become acquainted soon enough.
3. Don't ask what the blanket fee is for. You will be given a warm reception all right.
4. Don't ask for the "aqua" or "H₂O." Ostentatious knowledge is bad for a Freshman.
5. Don't ask who the Sophomores are. You will find them out, all right.
6. Don't put your class numerals on the buildings. Everybody knows a Freshman, and besides, it's bad for the building.
7. Don't try to be fresh. Freshness and greenness are qualities that don't mix.
8. DON'T BE A FOOL. It doesn't pay.

"Labor Omnia Vincit"

He loved her for her beauty,
She was divinely tall;
Her eyes and mouth were wondrous,
But she could not hear at all.

He took her out to shows and things,
And shouted in her ear,
Whenever he had ought to say
That she had ought* to hear.

Now for a time things went on well;
His vocal chords grew strong;
But when he tried to tell his love,
Why—everything went wrong.

She could not hear his whispered vows,
And if he tried to shout
Someone was near to listen,
And find the secret out.

One moonlight night a dance was on,
His heart was wild for her;
Alas! If he should shout his love,
It would create a stir.

What could he do? He led her out
To a forty acre field;
And in its center, 'neath the moon,
Alone, they stopped, and kneeled.

"Be mine, beloved!" he bellowed;
The maiden no word missed;
She nodded, fell into his arms,
No more was said—they kissed.

*This may be a grammatical error, but it is too much trouble to change it.—Ed. Note.

The reader should look up the unfamiliar words, such as "kiss," in the Dictionary.

SPECIAL ENGLISH COMPOSITIONS

The pecuniary complications fabricated by the intricate belligerent operations in that obsolescent portion of this terrestrial globe, involving internecine carnage, have promulgated an indispensable necessity of economizing frugality among all law-abiding citizens of this felicitous and dextrous commonwealth, consequently funds must be harbored with extraordinarily increasing degrees of circumspection; moreover, contemporaneous with this devastating catastrophe of modern civilization, let us conserve our budget by acquiring a budget at WALTER ALEXANDER JOHNSON'S HASHERY, where menus of the most inveighing character are served thrice daily, on the profit-sharing tariff of eighty bits per month. Q. E. D.

DON'T STOP: THE WORST IS YET TO COME

This is the rustic who distributed upon the bosom of the fertile terra firma the consolidated particles of the genus frumentum which furnished the sustenance of the Chanticleer who in the ante-meridian vociferated vigorously, who aroused from the bonds of slumber the secular clergyman whose superior termination had been deprived of its hirsute adornment, who united in the solemn bonds of matrimony the male of the human species whose habiliments were in the last stages of delapidation who was infatuated with the despondent damsel who extracted the laceted beryl from the domesticated animal of bovine lineage who elevated into the ethereal blue the scion of the canine family who seriously disturbed the equanimity of the fera natura of the genus felis who annihilated the obnoxious rodent who masticated the precarious substance deposited in the domiciliary edifice by John.

THE NEW ENDOWMENT INCLUDING DISABILITY

Is a splendid combination of investment and protection, and is particularly adapted to the needs of young men and women. It practically acts as a compulsory savings bank, compelling the saving of small sums which, in many cases, would otherwise be frittered away.

Moreover the savings are protected by insurance, as the contract guarantees that, in the event of death before the endowment matures, the return can never be less than the full value of the Policy.

The endowments are made to mature in ten, fifteen or twenty years, as desired.

Davidson College

- ¶ On September 6th, 1917, the college will enter its 82nd year of continuous service.
- ¶ It is the largest college for men under the care of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.
- ¶ It was founded and is now sustained to prepare young men for Christian leadership in church and state.
- ¶ It has been eminently successful in this in the past and is better equipped now to do its peculiar work than ever before.
- ¶ Its enrollment the past year has been the largest in the history of the college and the work has in all departments been excellent.
- ¶ The college has now as many students as it can efficiently handle and does not propose to increase the student body largely until added resources make such increase proper.
- ¶ For this reason it will be well to arrange for admission as early as possible. We do not take so many that we can not do justice to all.
- ¶ The high school certificates must be passed on before any one can be accepted and it is suggested that this be seen to and room engaged as soon as possible. Fourteen units properly distributed are required for unconditional entrance. Only two units of conditions are allowed. Thorough preparation is advised.

Drink Valada Mineral Water

¶ One drink of an impure water may be the origin of an enormous doctor bill, or perhaps a more serious termination.

¶ The Valada Mineral Spring is located nine miles south of Charlotte, N. C., embedded in a natural mammoth rock, and for more than sixty years has been known as Nature's Cure for Uric Acid Excess, Liver Complaint and Ailments of the Kidneys.

¶ No expense has been spared in the construction of the Spring House and Bottling Plant to make it complete against contamination. The abundant flow of the water, about five gallons per minute, makes fresh water available at all times.

¶ When in the city, you are cordially invited to call at 217 North Tryon Street, and from personal impression, to join the ranks of Valada satisfied "drinkers."
